Christmas Spirit Predominates Session at Tulsa Hotel Yesterday

The Christmas spirit predominated at the Saturday evening session of the City Club at the Tulsa hotel. The entertainment given and the talk of Judge Mather D. Eakes blended happily into what Christmas spirit. Mr. Eakes declared was the most perfect and timely program that the club had had in many weeks.

On next Monday, December 25, the club will not only observe the birth of its lord of governance, but also enjoy a round table discussion on "The Future of the City Club." To this discussion, President John R. Hattie urged all members to attend and participate.

Discussing the spiritual development of the nation, Judge Eakes said that three men stood out head and shoulders above all others. First of these, he said, was William Jennings Bryan. He declared that no American was so outstandingly spiritual in his way of thinking and conduct as Bryan. He said that Bryan's thoughts and teachings, while at the time considered impractical and visionary, had largely been put into practice in this country by others. Bryan, he said, was a man who thought of things that would come tomorrow and not so much of those that were here today.

Along the same line, Judge Eakes said that Theodore Roosevelt was the second big figure in a spiritual resume of Americans. The immortal colonel, he said, was of that practical turn of mind who was able through his own will power and great personality to lay hands on the affections of others and so take the treachery of Bryan and practice them.

Carrying the idea along, Judge Eakes said that Woodrow Wilson was a third spiritual figure. He said that Wilson's theories on spiritual things in life and civic affairs were clearly set forth in his writings and state documents.

Then turning to his topic, "The Spirit of Christmas," Judge Eakes delivered what several pastors present said was the most notable religious sermon that they had heard in a year.

The speaker dwelt at length on the life of Christ, and his teachings. He said that no other figure in history dominated men as did that of the lowly Nazarene. The philosophy of Jesus was simply touched on.

Mrs. Guy Parrish sang "Gloria" by Homer Rodeheaver, soloist with evangelist Billy Sunday and "The Star."

Mrs. Mabel Whaley Hendrix gave an original composition on "The Old-Time Circus" on the piano.

Rodger Doesn't Forget.

CHELSEA, Dec. 23.—Will Rodger, the movie comedian, does not forget his kith and kin in the midst of the El Dorado of prosperity. He has two sisters living at Chelsea in the persons of Mrs. "Cap" Lane, and Mrs. Tom McSpadden, and will send them $1,000 each as a Christmas box.

WHAT Did You See Today?

Write It for The World

There is full of potential reporters and the Tulsa World wants to see some acquainted with them, and offer them an opportunity to display their talent in reporting news. Send your own story and if you will, send an account of how an unusual incident or event occurred. Write the Tulsa World a story of not more than one hundred words, about it.

A Great Mischief or Too Many. My neighbor went to town yesterday to see his groceries and also brought a goose. When the man brought the goose he came in the house with it. As she was telling him where to put the goose, the goose reached over and hit her on the nose. As this made her a little vexed, she turned to the goose and told him not to be so smart. But found to her surprise that it was the goose instead of the grocery boy who had hit her.

A young man who called his call on North Boston avenue last night declared the influence of the Christmas spirit was already having its effect. He talked with two young men, each of whom declared it was his own residence he was talking to. When the third man answered from the same place he declared the action was easy. All were together at one house.

"Let me off at the First National bank building," said a woman passenger to the elevator girl in the Coaden building yesterday. "I am sorry but the First National bank building isn't in this building," responded the girl with a gasp.

An Indian back with his hair braided and tied with red ribbons was observed on South Main street yesterday evening. His squaw had trousers peeping from beneath her skirts.

An observer learned how to shorten the line in the postoffice yesterday. He saw a man slip a dollar into the hand of a man up near the window and give him his own bunch of packages to mail.

Men buy two kinds of silk hose, according to Jack Spinks. One kind is for their wives. The other kind is for—well maybe somebody else's wife!

Mean Stuff. "Is this stuff guaranteed to make a rabbit slap a bulldog in the face?" "My dear sir," said the bootlegger, with a pained expression, "this stuff will make a tenant snap his fingers under his landlord's nose."

POSSE ON TRAIL OF BANK BANDITS

Five Men Raid Bank; Escape With $3,000 at Ludlow, Mo.

By International News Service.

LUDLOW, Mo., Dec. 23.—Sheriff's posse and citizens today are scouring the surrounding country in a search for five armed bandits who raided the town early this morning, dynamited the bank, wrecking the entire building and escaped with $3,000 of the bank's money.

The bandits, armed to the teeth, according to information, drove into the town in an automobile, systematically cut every telephone and telegraph wire, bound and gagged him and descended upon the bank. After dynamiting the bank and taking all the money it contained, they shot up the town and escaped. No one was hurt by their bullets.

The bandits after completely wrecking the bank drove through the town shouting and waving and shooting defiance. The entire interior of the bank was blown into a pile of debris, its vault a mass of twisted steel.

The first act of the bandits who entered the town shortly after 1:30 this morning was to raid the telephone office, where they bound and gagged Fred Tuner, the night manager, then cut every wire leading into the exchange. The telegraph wires at the depot were next cut thus isolating the town from all outside communication with the world.

Townfolk aroused by the first shots of the bandits as they shot out a window in the bank were met by a flame of rifle shots from the guns of the bandits who had nested themselves behind police and in the lee of the bank building keeping up their rain of lead, until a muffled roar told of the blowing of the bank safe.

Groping about in the dark, the bandits secured $3,000 in cash and a small amount of war savings stamps overlocking $30,000 in bonds which lay on the floor.

Running from the bank they piled into the automobile and headed south. They are believed to be the same men who pulled a similar robbery at Galatin, Mo., several weeks ago when the First National bank of the town was robbed under similar circumstances.

Wally Reid Continues
To Improve, Is Report

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—Wally Reid continued to show improvement, physicians at his bedside said in a bulletin issued today. "Mr. Reid spent another restful night," it read. "He slept soundly and awakened in excellent spirits. His diet has been daily increased and now includes a baked potato and squash." No visitors are allowed and only Mrs. Dorothy Reid, his wife, is permitted at his bedside.

$50,000 Fire in Kansas City. KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 23.—Fire, which for a time, threatened to destroy the $50,000 building in the Wyandotte county home for the aged near here, was finally brought under control shortly before noon today. Sixty-nine elderly inmates were removed to safety without injury.

Prisoner Walks Away Unnoticed After Being Sentenced to Prison. SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 23.—Police and the United States marshal's office are scouring the city and surrounding country today for Robert Stewart, under a sentence of a year and a day in Leavenworth penitentiary for narcotic sales, who escaped from Deputy United States Marshal Guy Walker late Friday afternoon.

This is the second prisoner within three months that has escaped from Walker. Walker is a nephew of Harry M. Daugherty, United States attorney-general, his father being United States marshal for this district.

Stewart effected his escape while Walker was leading the prisoners into an automobile to take them to the county jail. He simply walked away and was not missed until the bond was checked at the county jail.

Salesmen and Driver Die as Train Hits Car

ROME, Dec. 23.—Material greed must give way to Christian justice in the world, Pope Pius XI declared today in his Christmas encyclical letter. It was addressed to Roman Catholic bishops throughout the world and made an eloquent plea for peace, based upon mutual concessions. The pontiff took the same text as in his message to the consistory on December 17. It was "Christ's Peace on Earth."

The driver of the machine, John W. Hanna, is from Sequin.

Says Southern Planters Are Again Facing Ruin

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Charging that southern planters are again facing ruin because the "gambler" Wall Street are forcing cotton out of their hands at a price which permits speculators to reap all the benefits, Senator Heflin, democrat of Alabama, in the senate this afternoon announced he would call for a senatorial investigation of cotton conditions when the senate convened after the Christmas holidays.

"Peace On Earth and Good Will—"

Christmas! Feelings of love and unselfish giving are stimulated into action. We take account of those near and dear to us, of those submerged. We think of giving, not of getting. The spirit of kindness stirs us to our depths.

How wonderful if we could bid this spirit abide with us through all the days!

If we could translate it into nobler conduct in all our daily tasks; if we could, through the entire year, think more of soul than self, of good than greed—what a marvelous world would be ours!

Let the spirit of kindness prevail.

A Christmas Pledge

To

Our Fellow Citizens

From car cleaners to president, the working force of the Tulsa Street Railway company extends to you, its fellow citizens, cordial, friendly greetings this Christmas season of Peace and Good Will.

With That Greeting We Give You This Pledge:

So far as honest purpose, earnest effort and our intelligence guide us, we so will discharge our OBLIGATION TO SERVE YOU that, toward us, the operators of your principal transportation system, your Good Will will always be merited and peace in feeling and fact may continue unbroken.

We know that PUBLIC SERVICE is the FIRST DUTY and the principal obligation of us all.

It is our ambition to transport the other workers of Tulsa so that Tulsa in this respect may become a model for this country. We charge for that PUBLIC SERVICE the fairest rates that engineering and administrative skill and justice to our own workers (which means justice to you) render possible.

WE WANT YOUR HELP, by your frank, constructive criticism and suggestion, by your belief in the sincerity of our pledge. WE BELONG TO THIS CITY. It cannot prosper best unless we serve it well. It is our "home town." WE cannot prosper best or long unless IT prospers in like measure.

IN GOOD WILL we give you this, our Christmas pledge.
